ALIBI DEFENSE IN LIQUOR SALES PROSECUTIONS

Republic Bar Closed at Time of First Alleged Purchase By Detectives.

DEFENDANT AWAY SECOND

Brother of One Defendant Testifies They Were Out Motoring at Time of First Alleged Sale of Whisky and in Another County at Time of Next.

Flat denial of the charges made by operatives of the Committee of One Hundred that they purchased whisky and beer from Joss Monko at the Republic hotel on October 6 and from Francis Szpakowski on October 8, was the defense offered today in the trial in court in Uniontown of the case of Szpakowsk and Monko on charges of illegal sale of liquor.

According to the evidence of the commonwealth the purchase on October 6 was made at 7 o'clock in the evening, and on October 8 before 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Counsel for the defense announced that witnesses would be called to prove the bar had been closed and the two defendants were gone an hour before the alleged purchase on the first day and that Szapowski was absent from Republic at the time of the alleged purchase on October 8.

Joe Brenkus, one of the operatives, had testified that he and R. R. Young, an associate in the work, had gone to the hotel at 7 o'clock the evening of October 6 and bought beer and whisky from Monko, which they drank. Adolph Szpowski, brother of Francis, and until recently in the hotel business at New Kensington, the first witness called by the defense, said he had gone to Republic on the evening of October 6, arriving at 5 o'clock, to see his brother relative to a farm and coal for which they were negotiating near New Kensington. At 6 o'clock said Adolph, his brother locked the bar. Monko went home for supper while Francis and the witness went to the dining room and ate their supper, this consuming about a half hour, and immediately afterward started on an automobile ride to Brownsville and Uniontown, from which they did not return until 9 o'clock. He said that at no time after closing had his brother been back to the bar.

The following day, October 7, about noon Adolph said he and Francis started in the latter's automobile for New Kensington. They stayed that night with a brother at New Kensington who owns a hotel. The following morning at 8 o'clock, the witness said, he and Francis met C. B. Cain, a Pittsburg real estate dealer, and Mr. Jenkins, a mining engineer, and together they drove to the farm in negotiation. They did not return to New Kensington until 3 o'clock that afternoon and did not get back to Republic until in the evening. Commonwealth evidence had been introduced to show that Young had purchased liquor from Szpakowski during the early afternoon, before 3 o'clock.

Taking of testimony of witnesses for the defense was begun soon after the opening of court this morning and after counsel for the defense had offered a motion for the commonwealth to elect which of the two defendants should be further tried, it being contended that there was no supported evidence against either. The motion was overruled.

The greater part of Tuesday afternoon was devoted to examination of Joe Brenkus and R. R. Young, operatives working under the Committee of One Hundred.

One of the duties of the detectives, Brenkus said, was to sample the liquors on sale. He said that if he and Young had bought only in bulk suspicion would have been attached them. At Republic he said he bought and drank a pint bottle of beer and then a glass of whisky.

The duties of the two committee operatives were to investigate "everybody "without fear or favor." Young testified on direct examination. On cross examination by H. S. Dumbauld he was asked why they did not investigate Democrats. The witness replied that he had and, asked to be specific, said that he had investigated the New Salem brewery and filed his report with the committee. He was not asked to de ail the nature of the report.

Attorney T. S. Lackey, president of the Committee of One Hundred, gave brief testimony late in the afternoon. He told of the committee's effort to secure a prohibition enforcement officer for Fayette county and also said that the two operatives of the committee were instructed to "investigate everybody." He said he had no knowledge of the report on the New Salem brewery.

That the Committee of One Hundred did not propose to limit its investigation to violations of the Brooks law alone but all other liquor laws was the declaration of T. S. Lackey, president of the committee, testifying yesterday in the case of Francis Spakowski and Jesse Monjo of Republic, charged with the illegal sale of liquor.

D'ANNUNZIO SURRENDERS AUTHORITY TO COUNCIL OF FIUME AND COUP IS AT END

General Cavigila, Commander of Italian Forces, Will Arrange Peace.

PORT SEIZED IN 1919

By Associated Press

FIUME, Dec. 29—Gabriel D'Annunzio early today surrendered all his powers to the Fiume communal council.

General Cavigila, commander of the regular Italian forces, will arrange the conditions of peace with a delegation of the council today.

Seizure of the port of Fiume in September, 1919, by Gabriel D'Annunzio, Italian poet warrior, at the head of 5,000 volunteer grenadiers and arditi, was the dramatic climax of a controversy reaching back to the Treaty of London, concluded in the spring of 1915 between Italy and the Allied powers, under which Italy entered the war against the Central Powers.

The treaty assigned the part of Tyrol, south of the Brenner Pass, as well as Trieste, Gorizia, Istria and a section of the Dalmatian littoral to Italy but gave Fiume, the seaport of Hungary, to Croatia.

When the war ended Italian Nationalists, including D'Annunzio, demanded that Fiume, with its preponderant Italian population, should be given to Italy, an act that would have required the revision of the Treaty of London. The Italians, however, invoked the principle of "self-determination enunciated by President Wilson and pointed to the fact that the population of Fiume, upon the dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian empire, had proclaimed through its national council, the union of Fiume with Italy.

Failure to reach a satisfactory solution of the Fiume embroglio, however, was one of the principal causes of the downfall of the Orlando ministry on June 19, 1919, and it was succeeded by the moderate Nitti cabinet, whose selection exasperated the Italian Nationalists and was the forerunner of the D'Annunzio coup d'etat the following September.

The 15 months that have elapsed since the poet-warrior set himself up as "a dictator" have been filled with tragic as well as opera bouffe events. Clashes between the Italians and Jugo-Slavs were frequent. D'Annunzio proclaimed the annexation of Fiume to Italy while that country was appealing to the Allied powers to wrest the city from him. Riots, strikes and fires were numerous and the United States cruisers Olympia and Pittsburg were sent to the Adriatic to protect American interests.

D'Annunzio put the city on scant rations and continued to issue defiant manifestos and declare he would "never leave Fiume alive." Many Italian sailors and soldiers joined his forces until, at one time, he as reported to have an army of more than 100,000 men.

On December 1 D'Annunzio declared a state of war with Italy and there was much war-like activity in Fiume.

GERMANS PROTEST DEMAND THAT CIVIC GUARD BE DISBANDED

Pressure of Allies Will Affect Reparations Negotiations at Brussels, They Declare.

By Associated Press

PARIS, Dec. 29. The foreign office was advised today that the German government delivered a note yesterday to the Allied representatives in Berlin protesting against the recent note of General Nollet, head of the Inter-Allied commission of control in Berlin with regard to the failure of the German government to disband the einwohnerwehr or civic guard.

The German note says that the success of the Brussels conference is likely to be affected if the Allies persist in the line of action they have taken concerning the police organizations and it demands that the note of the commission of control in which the subject was referred to be communicated to the German government.

The comment in official circles here today was that the Germans were trying to trade upon the hope entertained in France that the Brussels conference will finally clear up the reparations question.

PALMER APPEALS FOR FUND TO PROSECUTE DRY LAW VIOLATIONS

Great Increase Shown During Last Few Months Prior to September, Attorney General Says.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. Need of funds for prohibition enforcement, with wholesale violations reported from many section, was emphasized by Attorney General Palmer in estimates before the House Appropriations committee, made public today for the first time. His request for $300,000 was not included by the committee framing the sundry civil bill. Mr. Palmer told the committee that up to September 30, 1920, 17,595 arrests for violation had been made of which 17,425 cases were recommended for prosecution by the Department of Justice.

"Of that number about 10,000 a year during the last three months of last period," he said "and I am advised by the bureau of internal revenue that the ratio will increase. If it does not increase there will be 10,000 of those prosecutions to be handled by district attorneys during the next year.

WEATHER COLD

Thermometer Hanging Around 22-Degree Mark.

The city has been in the grip of a cold spell for the past three days. Yesterday proved unusually chilly, the thermometer remaining at 23 degrees until almost noon. Then it soared to 38 degrees, but in the early evening fell rapidly again, during the night a minimum of 22 was reached.

Ice has formed on the banks of the Youghiogheny river and cakes of mush ice are floating down stream.

State Electoral College Meeting.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 29. Pennsylvania members of the electoral college have been summoned to meet in the Senate chamber at the state capitol on January 10. Legion to Practice.

The American Legion will hold a basketball practice at the armory on Friday evening, Manage Harry Mason requests all candidates to be there at 7:30 o'clock.

TICKET SALE FOR "LEGION FOLLIES" BEGINS TOMORROW

Cashier Trenberth in Full Charge of Finances of the Enterprise.

A BIG SUCCESS ASSURED

The sale of seat reservations for the "Legion Follies," to be produced by The American Legion in the Soisson theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, January 4 and 5, opens at Buel & Company drug store, North Pittsburg street, at 10 o'clock tomorrow forenoon, with Miss Ethel Rush and Miss Elizabeth Patterson in charge. Opportunity will then be provided for those persons who have purchased tickets from the members of the Legion to secure their seat reservations and for those who have not yet taken that precaution to secure desirable accommodations for one or both of the performances to be given.

In order to simplify the financial end of the ticket selling arrangements have been made whereby the sole responsibility has been vested in a single person, R. S. Trenberth, cashier of the Colonial National bank will have full and complete charge of all matters relating to receipts from ticket sales. All members of the Legion and members of the Follies cast to whom tickets were distributed for sale will be required to make an accounting to Mr. Trenberth. A list of such persons, showing the number of tickets given to them has been supplied him and the individuals will have to turn in the equivalent in cash or any tickets that may remain unsold.

A complete rehearsal of all parts of the show will be held at the assembly hall of the Elks' club tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock, at which Director John R. Brown urges every member of the company to be present.

All the detail of the production have been worked out and all necessary arrangements made to insure running of the show upon both nights when it will hold the boards at the Soisson. As the time approaches, and the members of the cast who are very much in earnest and working hard to make the performance quite the most conspicuous success in the history of home talent shows in Connellsville, the producers are convinced beyond all doubt that the most sanguine expectations of themselves and the patrons of the show will be more than realized.

POLICE QUICKLY ROUND UP ALLEGED ALCOHOL THIEVES

Six Gallons of 23 Missing From Chemical Plant Recovered.

Following up a clue on the theft of alcohol from the plant of the Yough Chemical company in East Peach street, Chief of Police Thomas McDonald and Patrolman P. M. Rush landed three men within two and a half hours. One confessed soon after his arrest and all are being held at the police station.

"Muggsy" McGraw, "Parky" Camper and "Zip" Blosser, all local men, were arrested by the officers. The police were notified of the robbery at 9 o'clock and by noon had the trio in jail.

Blosser, the first man arrested, denied any knowledge of the alcohol. Then he broke under the questioning of the officers and confessed, they said. Six gallons of the fluid, in four one and one-half gallon jugs, was found in a room in Water street occupied by them last night.

Twenty-three gallons of alcohol are missing, a check of the supply at the chemical plant this morning showed. A theory is advanced that the stuff may not all have been taken last night, but that several visits may have been made there.

Blosser said he had not intended to steal the alcohol. He thought it was moonshine whisky, he said.

Entrance to the building was gained by forcing a door on Peach street. The men left by another door.

BANDIT KILLED, COMPANION CAPTURED AFTER HOLDING UP ILLINOIS CENTRAL FLYER

Prepared to Board Another When Officers, Tipped, Arrive.

ALL LOOT IS RECOVERED

By Associated Press

KANKAKEE, Dec. 29.—One of two youthful bandits who held up the New Orleans-Chicago flyer on the Illinois Central here was killed in a battle with police and detectives at Aroma park four miles east, early today and the other surrendered. The youths were Jose and Jacob Scott, twins, aged 24, were said to be the sons of a merchant in Greenville.

A holdup of the Cincinnati-bound train on the Big Four was contemplated by the two brothers, it was believed, but was prevented when the station agent at Aroma park telegraphed warning that two men resembling the robbers were in the waiting room of his station. Officers arrived as the Big Four train pulled into the station, chased Jacob into the train and into a washroom and fired through the walls until he was fatally wounded.

Only the rear Pullman on the Illinois Central train was robbed, the two youths boarding the train at Gilman, a few miles south and leaping off just as the train entered Kankakee. Several hundred dollars in cash and a few thousand dollars in jewelry were recovered.

EVERSON FOLKS MAKE CHRISTMAS HAPPY AT FAYETTE COUNTY HOME

Choir and Orchestra of United Brethren Church Give Entertainment; Dinner and Tree Also.

The choir and orchestra of the United Brethren church at Everson assisted in making Christmas a happy occasion for the inmates of the county home near Uniontown. Sixteen of the two organizations made up the party which gave an entertainment following a chicken dinner served to the inmates on Christmas Day. Other visitors at the home included Miss Minnie Crouse, superintendent of the Cottage State hospital, Connellsville who brought some Christmas gifts to a former patient at the hospital.

Director W. H. Rankin of Upper Tyrone township spent the greater part of the day at the home assisting in the program for the day. Besides the dinner and entertainment there was a tree, with gifts for the aged and infirm who are cared for there.

CLOTHING WORKERS GO ON STRIKE TO PREVENT WAGE CUT

Thirty to 40 Small Plants in Baltimore Affected by Walkout Called for Today.

By Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Dec. 29—Garment workers employed in 30 or 40 of the smaller clothing factories went on strike today.

The chief point at issue is an effort on the part of the manufacturers to reduce wages to the 1919 level, a cut averaging 25 to 30 per cent.

That a wage reduction is being sought was admitted by several manufacturers who declared that the trade will no longer bear the scale demanded.

REWARD HELD UP

State Officers Will Make No Claim for County's $5,000.

No formal disposition will be made of the case of Albert Smith, self-confessed firebug, until after New Year's. This positive announcement was made last night after state police and county authorities had been in afternoon conference with the Fayette county board of commissioners.

"Was the matter of reward touched upon at the conference?" Mr. Hibbs was questioned.

"Not in any specific terms," he said. "The fact was established however, that the state officers do not intend putting in any claim for the reward. They set forth their case in detail but let it be known that they did not intend contending for the reward. There was no discussion relative to an identification bureau for the county."

RAIL MEN GET VACATION

Report Off Sick For Holidays and Are Continued as "Indisposed."

Some Baltimore & Ohio railroad employes today use the fact that they reported off "sick" over Christmas, according to reports. They are still enjoying a holiday lay-off and the continuance of it for a few more days in prospect.

The railroads are not taxed at present as they were not long ago. When a number of employes reported off sick, in most cases to have a vacation on Christmas day, it was an easy matter for the company to find their condition "unchanged" the following day.

"You're still too sick to come to work," was the verdict of the doctor to them. And the "vacation" continues.

GIFTS FOR HOSPITAL

Star Junction Folks Give Liberally for Markleton Patients.

The patients at the government hospital at Markleton appreciated very much the treat taken to them on Saturday, December 19, by Rev. A. J. Foggle, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Star Junction, Mrs. Edward Lang, Mrs. Archie Rowley and John Rowley.

Each patient received a beautiful woolen bathrobe and a generous supply of candy, chewing gum and tobacco. After the distribution of the gifts a service was held in the Red Cross house by Rev. Foggle.

REFUSES TO PAY TAX

Passenger on West Penn Street Car Is Arrested.

Ben Cooper, a passenger on a West Penn street car yesterday refused to pay the war tax on his fare and was arrested by Patrolmen P. M. Rush on information of E. R. Knouse, assistant general superintendent.

Cooper was taken before Alderman Fred Mank. He claimed he had paid the war tax and for that reason refused what he thought was the second demand for it. He paid the assessment. As the man is a cripple the alderman did not assess him any costs.

LARGEST COAL DEAL IN WORLD'S HISTORY UNDER NEGOTIATION

United States Steel Corporation Reported to Be the Purchaser.

30,000 ACRES IN TRACT

Which Embraces Practically All of What Remains of J. V. Thompson's Holdings in Greene County; Consideration Is Estimated at $20,000,000.

According to reports current in Pittsburg yesterday the United States Steel Corporation, as a means of safeguarding itself against the much predicted exhaustion of a coal supply, is negotiating the largest purchase of virgin coal land ever undertaken by a corporation or individuals in America, if not in the world. It is buying up everything in the way of by-product coal lands east and southeast of Waynesburg, in Greene county, approximating 30,000 acres, all or most of which was formerly held by Josiah V. Thompson. The amount the steel corporation is paying for this is conservatively estimated at $20,000,000.

While the United States Steel Corporation is credited with holding the record in the way of big coal land purchases by industries, this will exceed all previous deals it has ever been interested in. It will involve more than double the number of acres taken over several weeks ago by J. M. Paisley of the Valley Camp Coal company—13,608 acres in West Virginia of the Cochran estate—which has stood out conspicuously in coal land transactions of recent times in this country.

Incidentally the gigantic deal will put Greene county coal on an entirely new valuation basis, according to well informed coal men of Waynesburg.

The steel corporation is reported to have outgeneraled and outwitted nearly a score of independent steel concerns in getting hold of this big block of coal. It has always been looked upon as a "jewel," to put it in the language of a veteran coal land owner of that county. Four big automobile concerns also have been after it during the past eight years but the steel corporation began picking it up little by little until today it is now in possession of all of it, with clear titles to every acre. The work of accumulating the vast acreage has been quietly carried on for the last two years.

It is planned to make several openings in the coal early in 1921. Each operation will have a daily product on varying from 5,000 to 10,000 tons, all of which will be used in the great Clairton by-product plant, the largest in the world, which in itself represents an investment of $10,000,000.

The new coal resources give the steel corporation a decided advantage in the cost of coal delivered because of river transportation. All the mine outlets will be on the river, leaving intact the beautiful farming country of the four townships—Whiteley, Jefferson, Greene and Cumberland—embracing the vast acreage of coal.

Approximately $5,000,000 more will be expended by the steel corporation for mining equipment, including electric transportation facilities, a big fleet of new barges, hundreds of miners' houses, the building of company stores, etc.

This purchase, if concluded as reported, together with the existing holdings of the H. C. Frick Coke company and the Piedmont Coal company, understood to be an affiliation of the United States Steel Corporation, will make this industrial enterprise the largest owner of coal land in the world and give it almost complete control of the Greene county field.

The sale of 1,953 acres of coal land in Greene county, consisting of a large part of the well-known Brant field in Wayne township, to the Perry Land company at $250 an acre was announced Tuesday. The amount involved will approximate a half million dollars.

The original Brant field consisted of 2,183 acres and is located in Wayne township. It is practically the last large coal field remaining in that section of Greene county close to the line of east development.

Greene county coal has passed into the hands of capitalists with amazing rapidity during the year 1920. There now remain but small unimportant sections of "riverfront" coal that have not been acquired by large producing corporations.

The parcels in the present sale were handled largely by T. S. Lackey of Uniontown. Practically all of the coal was held by Uniontown interests, including the Stein brothers, Mrs. Jean Vail, Mr. Elizabeth Beal, T. S. Lackey, M. A. F. Cooper, M. and Mrs. William McClure, Mrs. Drusilla L. Stroud, John O'Donnell and a two-third interest in the Farmers & Drovers bank of Waynesburg, owned by H. Rathbun, W. C. McKean, Mrs. A. F. Cooper and T. S. Lackey.

The Perry Land company, it is said to be one of the subsidiary companies of the original Piedmont Coal company which purchased the J. V. Thompson estate. It now owns in its own name thousands of acres in Greene county.

POLICEMAN N. J. SMITH NOW DISCUSSES CASE

Officer Ached from Head to Foot With Rheumatism—Tanlac Ends His Troubles and He Gained Twenty Pounds.

"Many of my comrades as well as numbers of my other friends know what I think of Tanlac for I have told them," said N J Smith, a well-known police officer residing at 416 North 59th street Philadelphia, in an interview recently Mr Smith has been with the Philadelphia Police Department for five years and is not only popular as an officer but highly esteemed as a citizen

"For five years or more continued Officer Smith "I have suffered with rheumatism at times practically all over my body My arms and shoulders often hurt me so bad I could hardly raise my hand high enough to put my cap on and my legs got so stiff and hurt so bad I couldn't walk without limping At times my back ached so I could scarcely stoop over to pick up anything and it was next to impossible for me to walk I had a dull ache all through my body which at times turned to sharp shooting pains and I just had to grit my teeth [illegible] groaning Often I would get dizzy and nearly lose my balance and the pains made me so weak I could hardly stay on my beat Finally I got to having sharp pains in my chest so bad I couldn't get a deep breath without just suffering agony My suffering shattered my nerves and I got to where I would jump at the least noise Nights I lay awake for hours without closing my eyes the pains torturing me in every position I assumed and I was so nervous and miserable I just wished for day to come I lost considerable weight and got to where I was constantly losing several days at a time from work on account of my condition

"Well I finally decided to try Tanlac having heard it praised so much and I count myself lucky that I got it Why even the first bottle helped me so I got more and kept taking it until now I feel like a new man I haven't a trace of rheumatism left and my muscles are as supple and strong as they ever were I have gained twenty pounds in weight and I am now about as husky and strong as I ever was Tanlac is great there's no getting around that fact"

Swimmers of the military academy at West Point are to have a competent coach this season and water sports will be fostered. Several meets are being arranged and it is probable that college water polo will be among the sports featured.

NEW BASKETBALL RULES

Two important changes in the rules of the Intercollegiate Basketball league have been made. The first will permit a player who has been taken out of the game at any time to be sent back later provided he has not committed four personal fouls, which automatically results in his disqualification for the entire game. The second change provides that after a "held ball" beneath the basket, the ball will be brought out to the 15-foot line and tossed up.

MAP MAKING BY AIR IS CHEAP

IS ACCURATE AND QUICK

Damascus Photographic Map Made in 31 Days That Took Three Years by Old Method—In Hour's Flight Almost 100 Square Miles Can Be Photographed—Systematic Air Photography Helpful to Geologist and Archaeologist

Aerial map making is one of the accomplishments of air photography and says the London Daily Telegraph it can be shown that for scales of 1:2000 to 1:50,000 air photography has cheapness, accuracy, speed and increased detail. Air photographs are taken at a height of 10,000 to 15,000 feet, the plates having [illegible] horizontal not exceeding 5 degrees or 10 degrees [illegible] overlap of [illegible] but with 50 per cent [illegible] about one [illegible] each negative.

[illegible]

Made to Any Scale

[illegible]

For accuracy all maps must be based on a trigonometrical first points grid [illegible] traverse. The cost of this [illegible] will be the same or less [illegible] maps. It has been found much cheaper to reproduce [illegible] photogravure than to draw the map and print it in the usual way. A photographic map of Damascus [illegible] 1:1,500 took 31 [illegible] the photographs [illegible]

[illegible] the process [illegible] by [illegible] optical lines [illegible] are followed by the airman and the photographer. There is far greater accuracy of small details, the chances of personal error are greatly reduced both with the surveyor, the plotter and the draughtsman, who tends to draw straight lines.

He would draw a face like an Egyptian hieroglyphic. On the other hand cadastral surveyors contend that measurements taken from a photo may are not sufficiently accurate for legal purposes owing to [illegible] well defined a matter for further experiment and proof.

Can Be Enlarged

A good photograph can always be enlarged even ten times its original scale and be accurate, a drawn map cannot be enlarged. This fact alone gives a great advantage to the former. The speed of the method requires no demonstration.

In an hour's flight almost 100 square miles can be photographed giving detail that would take weeks or months to collect otherwise. The trigonometrical work takes the same time in both methods, and the reproduction is quicker by photography.

It has been proven that accurate maps can be made cheaply from 1:2,000 to 1:60,000 scales provided the country to be mapped is flat. If it is uneven or hilly no satisfactory method of getting absolute accuracy has yet been demonstrated but it certainly can be done by overlapping photos and the stereoscope. Experiments for mapping in war time in an enemy's country, where one cannot fix points on the ground for reconnaissance of large areas on small scale work bearing in mind the cost in determining the most practical instruments to use camera lenses, enlarging apparatus, etc. and in various other matters, must be studied further.

Research work on a definite program is necessary. The best country for such experiment is probably Egypt where an up-to-date survey department exists and a very important air force base is stationed. The weather is perfect, the country flat with well defined hilly deserts to experiment over.

Crop Measurement

Egypt would benefit apart from mapping. The irrigation department would obtain all sorts of valuable information concerning the Nile, its lakes and basins, including the contouring of the latter by [illegible] when the floods are at varying levels. Geologists would learn more and archaeologists too. The tax gatherer could record his crop measurements—a most important item—and various other departments would likewise gain. Systematic air photography of such a country will shortly become an annual necessity.

HOPES FRIENDS WILL GIVE IT A FAIR TRIAL

Stillman I. Webb of Beckley, W. Va. suffered for five years from stomach trouble and indigestion and could not get anything to relieve him until he began taking The Reese Formula R-11. After taking the first bottle Mr. Webb made the following statement:

"I have taken only one bottle of The Reese Formula R-11 but I feel better than I have for five years. I suffered for that length of time with stomach trouble, indigestion and constipation and could get nothing to relieve me until I began taking The Reese Formula R-11 which relieved me at once. I want to most heartily recommend The Reese Formula R-11 and only hope my friends and neighbors will give it a fair trial."

BRIDGES REALLY GET TIRED

In Point of Fact, Steel Experiences Fatigue Under Prolonged Strain, Just as Human Body.

The fact that two men were killed recently as a result of the metal of the crane on which they were working becoming "tired" brings to light a little-known phenomenon.

"Steel nearly always tires under prolonged strain, just as the human body does," said an expert at the inquest.

The amount of fatigue depends on the strain to which the steel has been subjected, but it does not necessarily require an excessive weight to tire metal to its breaking point. An overworked chain, for example, will break under the weight of one or two tons, although normally it may have been tested to stand 20 or 30 tons. For this reason all government contractors are obliged to give their crane chains a rest at stated intervals.

One cure for the tired chain is to heat it until it is red hot and then put it to bed in quick lime.

Metal bridges get "that tired feeling" in just the same way. Sunday, in fact, is as great a benefit to the tired bridge as it is to the work-weary human being.

Interesting Wingless Birds.

The weka, or wood hen, is a specially interesting species of the wingless birds. These birds mate for life and take turns in hatching and watching the brood. One of the pair is always at the nest, the one "on duty" being supplied with food by the other. There is something almost human in the sight of a male weka leading his family out for a stroll on the beach.

Another is the roa, which is distinguished by a remarkable beak—long, slender and slightly curved. The roa, like the kakapo, is a night bird, and its chief food is earthworms.

Italian Tragedian's Art.

Rossi, the Italian tragedian, achieved a great triumph of another over matter when, dining at a cafe with some fellow actors, he accepted a wager that he could so read the menu as to bring tears to their eyes. His noble office, pathetic at soups, appealing among fish, frenzied with the roast, rising to agony at vegetables, sinking to heart-broken sobs and poignant whispers in the enumeration of sweets and fruit, and fading finally at coffee, to a dying sigh, was not to be resisted. Tears streamed down their cheeks and Rossi won the wager.

A Happy Family

Everett, Pa.—"The length of time that we have used Dr. Pierce's medicines I believe will testify to the fact that they gave entire satisfaction. I think I am safe in saying that we have used Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for 35 years and have found them superior to all other medicines as a stomach remedy. We always found them mild in their operation but very effective. I have also used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery off and on for 25 years. That I am living today I attribute to the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' My daughters as well as my sons have also made liberal use of it with great benefit to themselves.

Sweaters and Their Kindred

SWEATERS take a long step forward in the public mind just before the holidays, and when those who fill winter resorts are assembling their new belongings. If the signs do not fail, about half the population contemplates going somewhere and no one will go anywhere without a sweater or a sweater coat, even when the far tropics are in contemplation. Therefore the manufacturers of sweaters and kindred garments, like scarfs, have presented, as they always must, some ideas that add novelty to the other attractions of their products.

In style, the sweater coat, the slipover and surplice models have evidently been cast for the leading roles in the season's drama. Beautiful management of the knitting, unusual new trimmings, much angora wool, are featured. Scarfs are very wide, provided with one or two pockets and worn with a narrow belt of outer either of a wider or a to its. Is the ... the center of the scarf along one edge is attached. This hangs it down in the back. Colors are not garish, but deep orange, warm purples and strong greens find admirers, but are not more popular than black and white. A deep cerise is a great favorite, trimmed with bands in brighter colors. Scarfs have caps to match or hats made of different materials but corresponding in color.

A pretty surplice is shown in the picture above and its trimming marks a new achievement of the loom called wool ostrich. Curl colored bands of rather appear among the novelties also. The scarf with hat to match suggests that hats instead of caps will provide more dignified head covering and all the styles in sweaters show a richness that pervades all kinds of models.

Senreco

The double-service tooth paste, keeps teeth clean AND GUMS HEALTHY.

Keeping the gums healthy and the mouth sweet is very important to health; more teeth are lost through the loosening of the tissue that holds the teeth in place than from decay.

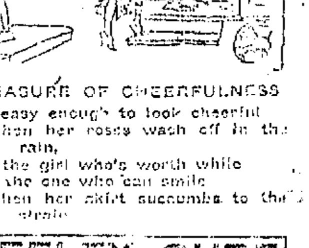

Dental science to-day demands that a tooth paste must keep the gums healthy as well as clean the teeth.

Senreco was formulated to meet this requirement. Hundreds of dentists are prescribing and using Senreco because they have found that it does measure up to that standard.

SENRECO IS A WONDERFUL CLEANSER.

In addition to its remedial properties Senreco is a wonderful cleanser; acts directly on the mucin film, the basis of tartar; leaves the mouth cool and clean-feeling. As some one has expressed it—Senreco gives one a new idea on mouth cleanliness.

Get a tube to-day at your druggist or toilet counter—enjoy the healthy, cleanly feeling its use gives your mouth and gums. Notice how brilliantly white Senreco makes your teeth. It performs this two-fold service for you and yet costs no more than the ordinary, old-fashioned tooth paste that simply cleans the teeth and leaves a pleasant taste—

WEDNESDAY EVE'G, DEC. 29, 1920.

COAL MINE DEVELOPMENT.

Coal men, engineers and student of economic conditions will not dispute the statement made before the American Economic Association to the effect that the coal industry in the United States is developed [illegible] the demands of trade although consumers of coal and the general public may be unwilling to take the same view particularly at seasons of the year when there is difficulty in securing a plentiful supply.

The difference in attitude on this question is largely one of information. Persons most conversant with the coal industry are aware of the fact that the productive capacity of the mines already equipped is such that if they were operated to the maximum upon all the working days of the year much more coal would be mined than is required to both domestic consumption and export trade. But it is no less well known that scarcely any mine has operated at maximum capacity during any considerable period in any single year not even upon all of the working days of the year when it was in production.

The interruption to full operation and to full time operation have been so many in number and so varied in character that it is a very rare occurrence for a mine to run continuously and at maximum capacity except at intervals and then during comparatively brief periods.

It has been one of the noteworthy features of the coal industry that interruptions to steady operation occur with a strange persistence at seasons when in order to best supply the consumptive needs the flow of coal from mine to markets or consumers storage should be the freest and in regular volume. With that procrastination or improvidence which has become an American trait coal consumers refuse to buy during the seasons of the year when conditions are most favorable to high output lowest cost of production and quickest transportation movement. Deferring purchases until the fall and winter months when consumptive demand is the greatest the difficulties of operation multiplied and transportation more or less hampered by weather conditions and largely increased tonnage of bulky freight coal users find their bins with [illegible] less the price at higher [illegible] and a supply not always as quickly available as their needs require.

A rush to buy causes prices advance in the operation proceeds under high tension excessive demand are made upon transportation facilities congestion results at some and classification yards and the movement of all freight traffic is slowed down. Under such circumstances and by which the less well informed coal users generally form their judgment of the capabilities of the coal producers to meet the market demands the erroneous estimate is made that the development of the coal industry is grossly inadequate to the needs of the country.

If it were possible to bring about what coal men have long visioned as ideal conditions of freedom from wage disputes and lockouts an ample continuous and regularly placed supply of cars freer buying in the summer season an uninterrupted movement of coal from mine to market and an elimination of long hauls and cross hauls the coal industry would be found to so function that there would be no occasion to alternate high pressure operation with more or less prolonged periods of virtual suspensions. There would then result a steady flow of coal through the arteries of trade every want of consumers would be amply supplied and it would be found that existing mine development would take care of every demand and with a large margin of safety.

Unhappily these conditions do not prevail never have prevailed and at present appear to be of remote attainment. Until they do prevail the impression will be more or less persistent that the coal industry has not expanded sufficiently to keep pace with the requirements of industry but this view will not be shared by those engaged in it.

It is something like the loss of one of the city's landmarks to have City Solicitor Highee relinquish his position but the residents have every assurance that Attorney Goldsmith as his successor together with Assistant Solicitor Ren[illegible] will still keep the First City of [illegible] in first place in so far as all legal matters are concerned.

Existing prices for coal are rather convincing proof to the average coal man that the industry is developed beyond the needs of trade or at least beyond the [illegible] highly profitable trade.

Answer to Anti-Jewish Propaganda

A conference was recently held in [illegible] to consider the widespread campaign of secret anti Jewish propaganda. This conference was participated in by the foremost national Jewish organizations and authorized the issuance of a public statement in which the so-called Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion now being circulated in large numbers by secret agencies are condemned as a forgery and the charge that Bolshevism is part of a conspiracy of Jews and Freemasons to secure world domination is denounced as a malicious invention inspired by foreign reactionary forces for the purpose of breeding suspicion and hatred of the Jews and Freemasons in the United States in order to discredit "free government in the eyes of the European masses" and thus facilitate the restoration of absolutism in government.'

The signatories of the declaration which is addressed To Our Fellow Citizens include the following representative Jewish organizations The American Jewish Committee the Zionist Organization of America, the Union of American Hebrew Congregations the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations the United Synagogue of America the Provisional Committee for an American Jewish Congress, the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, the Central Conference of American Rabbis, the Rabbinical Assembly of the Jewish Theological Seminary and the United Orthodox Jewish Rabbis of America. The complete address follows.

During the war by secret agencies a document variously called the Protocols of the Elders of Zion,' The Protocols of the Meetings of the Zionist Men of Wisdom and The Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion, was clandestinely circulated in typewritten form among public officials and carefully selected civilians for the purpose of giving rise to the belief that the Jews in conjunction with Freemasons had been for centuries engaged in a conspiracy to produce revolution and anarchy by means of which they hoped to attain the control of the world by the establishment of some sort of despotic rule. Some months ago this document was published in England. More recently it has appeared in print in the United States and thousands of copies have been circulated with an air of mystery among legislators, journalists clergymen and teachers, members of clubs and indiscriminately to the general public. The London Morning Post has given out a series of articles as a commentary upon the Protocols, in which the charge of an unholy conspiracy between Jews and Freemasons is elaborated and Bolshevism is characterized as a movement of for and by the Jews and is declared to be a fulfillment of the Protocols. These articles whose author is not disclosed have now appeared in book form under the title The Cause of World Unrest. During the past six months there have been sent forth weekly in Henry Ford's organ the Dearborn Independent attacks of extraordinary virulence upon the Jews. These assaults upon the honor of the Jewish people are all founded on the Protocols and on the discredited literature of Russian and German anti-Semitism inspired by the minions of autocracy. Parrot like they repeat the abominable charges that can only appeal to the credulity of a stunned intelligence—charges long since conceded to be unfounded by all fair-minded men. Ford is employing his great wealth in scattering broadcast his fulminations regardless of consequences.

When the Jews of the United States first learned of these malevolent prints they deemed it beneath their dignity to take notice of them because they regarded them as a mere recrudescence of mediaeval bigotry and stupidity showing upon their face their utter worthlessness. These publications have however been put in circulation to such an extent that it is believed that the time has come humiliating though it be to them, for the Jews to make answer to these libels and to the unworthy insinuation and innuendoes that have been whispered against them.

Speaking as representatives of the Jewish people familiar with the history of Judaism in its various phases and with the movements past and present in Jewish life, we say with all solemnity:

The Protocols are a base forgery. There has never been an organization of Jews known as The Elders of Zion or The Zionist Men of Wisdom or The Wise men of Zion or bearing any other similar name. There has never existed a secret or other Jewish body organized for any purpose such as that implied in the Protocols. The Jewish people have never dreamed of a Jewish dictatorship of a destruction of religion, of an interference with industrial prosperity or of an overthrow of civilization. The Jews have never conspired with Freemasons or with any other body for any purpose.

From the time of the destruction of the Temple at Jerusalem by Titus, the Jews have had no political state. For centuries they were forced to wander from land to land to flee for refuge wherever they might find it against bitter persecution. They were pent up in ghettoes were deprived of even the shadow of civil or political rights and were made the objects of every possible form of discrimination. It is little more than 50 years since the Jews of Western Europe became politically emancipated. Until the outbreak of the World War the Jews of Eastern Europe constituting a major[ity] of all the Jews of the world were not even permitted to exercise the rights of citizenship in lands where they and their ancestors had dwelt for generations. The great mass of Jews were hampered in every way in their efforts to earn a livelihood. Far from desiring to govern the world they were content with the opportunity to live. Numerically they constitute less than one per cent of the population of the earth and more than one half of them are on the verge of starvation. The suggestion that in their feebleness they have been planning in secret conclave to seize absolute power and to dominate the 99 per cent non-Jews upon the globe is a ridiculous invention than which even madness can conjure nothing more preposterous.

CONTENTED.

Wouldn't make much of a rich man I guess
Couldn't be happy in up-to-date dress
Too fond o' third sleeves an' slippers at night
An' the old pipe to smoke an' the flickerin' light
Of a grate fire I've started myself in the ease
Of doin' exactly the way that I please
Like putting my feet on the rungs of a chair
An' droppin' asleep if I want to right there
Too fond o' havin' folks tap at my door
An' know they are welcome to come long before
I've answered the knock which they never would do
If somehow I'd gathered a million or two.

Riches are fine to possess but I vow
I'm sort o' contented with I've got now
The home's not a palace but some one I find
It's fashioned to suit just my style of a mind
The mother an' I can sit here by the fire
An' know we've got all that our hearts can desire
The children around us their friends droppin' in
To bang the piano an' kick up a din
An' fun goin' on an' the room all ablaze
With gladness an' mirth in the old-fashioned ways—
An' this couldn't happen I'm tellin' to you
If somehow I'd gathered a million or two.

Folks are scared o' be friendly with rich men and great
They never come neighborin' up to the gate
Of a feller that wallows in silver an' gold
An' even the fire that he sits by seems cold
Wealth has too much convention an' fashion an' sham
An' I guess I am happier jus' as I am
I need all my neighbors to drop in an' call
Without bein' invited an' better than all
I need all the children contented at home
Jus' glad to be here an' not wantin' to roam
So I fill up my pipe an' rejoice through an' through
That I'm not alone with a million or two.

Bread from Stones

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

UNCLE Henry Wallace used to say that you cannot expect to remove fertility year after year from the soil without renewing it, any more than you could keep on drawing money out of the bank without making a deposit. He used to rage up and down the land denouncing the man who mined his soil and called it farming.

Dr Cyril G. Hopkins belonged to the same school and single handed he crusaded against soil robbers by advocating building up of a permanent soil fertility by the use of rock phosphate.

He demonstrated on three hundred acres of very poor land in Southern Illinois that he could by using manure, limestone and rock phosphate, produce 34½ bushels of wheat per acre, whereas on his check plots where farm manure alone was used, he got but 11½ bushels.

He taught that our nitrogen supply can be taken from the air and that we generally have enough potash, but that we must replenish phosphates.

This can be done in several ways. A finely ground raw rock phosphate will not give much available fertility the first year but the soil can gradually be built up by its use. More immediately profitable is an acid phosphate which runs about 16 per cent available phosphate, and now come the cheering news that our copper mining companies are utilizing their waste sulphuric acid by treating phosphate rock and producing a treble super phosphate which will run about 40 to 48 per cent or three times the strength of ordinarily prepared acid phosphates.

This [illegible] in the West will prove a [illegible] to wheat farmers who [illegible] for a way out of their rust and cultivation [illegible] If this phosphate which should cost about three dollars per acre will make a [illegible] sturdy plant which will resist rust its importance cannot be overestimated. Experiments are being made in all of the stations [illegible] which will be [illegible] and every possible [illegible] even to [illegible] what [illegible] the rust period.

The time will soon come when it will be a crime in law as it is already a crime in fact to rob the [soil] [illegible] to [illegible] a perfect right to [illegible] [illegible] for all [illegible] for posterity. [illegible]

A Princess of Mars

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Author of

Tarzan of the Apes

Illustrations by Irwin Myers

(Copyright by A. C. McClurg & Co.)

"Princess of Helium, I might wring a mighty ransom from your people would I but return you to them unharmed, but a thousand times rather would I watch that beautiful face writhe in the agony of torture. It shall be long drawn out, that I promise you; ten days of pleasure were all too short to show the love I harbor for your race. The terrors of your death shall haunt the slumbers of the red men through all the ages to come; they will shudder in the shadows of the night as their fathers tell them of the awful vengeance of the green men; of the power and might and hate and cruelty of Tal Hajus. But before the torture you shall be mine for one short hour, and word of that too shall go forth to Tardos Mors, Jeddak of Helium, your grandfather, that he may grovel upon the ground in the agony of his sorrow. Tomorrow the torture will commence; tonight thou art Tal Hajus'; come."

He sprang down from the platform and grasped her roughly by the arm, but scarcely had he touched her than I leaped between them. My short-sword, sharp and gleaming, was in my right hand; I could have plunged it into his putrid heart before he realized that I was upon him; but as I raised my arm to strike I thought of Tars Tarkas, and, with all my rage, with all my hatred, I could not rob him of that sweet moment for which he had lived and hoped all these long, weary years, and so, instead, I swung my good right fist full upon the point of his jaw. With a sound he slipped to the floor as one dead.

In the same deathly silence I grasped Dejah Thoris by the hand, and motioning Sola to follow we sped noiselessly from the chamber and to the floor above. Unseen we reached a rear window and with the straps and leather of my trappings I lowered, first Sola and then Dejah Thoris to the ground below. Dropping lightly after them I drew them rapidly around the court in the shadows of the buildings, and thus we returned over the same course I had so recently followed from the distant boundary of the city.

We finally came upon my thoats in the courtyard where I had left them, and placing the trappings upon them we hastened through the building to the avenue beyond. Mounting, Sola upon one beast, and Dejah Thoris behind me upon the other, we rode from the city of Thark through the hills to the south.

No word was spoken until we had left the city far behind, but I could hear the quiet sobbing of Dejah Thoris as she clung to me with her dear head resting against my shoulder.

"If we make it, my chieftain, the debt of Helium will be a mighty one; greater than she can ever pay you; and should we not make it," she continued, "the debt is no less, though Helium will never know, for you have saved the last of our line from worse than death."

I did not answer, but instead reached to my side and pressed the little fingers of her I loved where they clung to me for support, and then, in unbroken silence, we sped over the yellow, moonlit moss; each of us occupied with his own thoughts.

Our earlier plans had been so sadly upset that we now found ourselves without food or drink, and I alone was armed. We therefore urged our beasts to a speed that must tell on them sorely before we could hope to sight the ending of the first stage of our journey.

We rode all night and all the following day with only a few short rests. On the second night both we and our animals were completely fagged, and so we lay down upon the moss and slept for some five or six hours, taking up the journey once more before daylight. All the following day we rode, and when, late in the afternoon we had sighted no distant trees, the mark of the great waterways throughout all Barsoom, the terrible truth flashed upon us—we were lost.

Evidently we had circled, but which way it was difficult to say, nor did it seem possible with the sun to guide us by day and the moons and stars by night. At any rate no waterway was in sight, and the entire party was almost ready to drop from hunger, thirst and fatigue. Far ahead of us and a trifle to the right we could distinguish the outlines of low mountains. These we decided to attempt to reach in the hope that from some ridge we might discern the missing waterway. Night fell upon us before we reached our goal, and, almost fainting from weariness and weakness, we lay down and slept.

I was awakened early in the morning by some huge body pressing close to mine, and opening my eyes with a start I beheld my blessed old Woola snuggling close to me; the faithful brute had followed us across that trackless waste to share our fate, whatever it might be. Putting my arms about his neck I pressed my cheek close to his, nor am I ashamed that I did it, nor of the tears that came to my eyes as I thought of his love for me. Shortly after this Dejah Thoris and Sola awakened, and it was decided that we push on at once in an effort to gain the hills.

We had gone scarcely a mile when I noticed that my thoat was commencing to stumble and stagger in a most pitiful manner, although we had not attempted to force them out of a walk since about noon of the preceding day. Suddenly he lurched wildly to one side and pitched violently to the ground. Dejah Thoris and I were thrown clear of him and fell upon the soft moss with scarcely a jar; but the poor beast was in a pitiable condition, not even being able to rise, although relieved of our weight. Sola told me that the coolness of the night, when it fell, together with the rest would doubtless revive him, and so I decided not to kill him, as was my first intention, as I had thought it cruel to leave him alone there to die of hunger and thirst. We left the poor fellow to his fate, and pushed on with the one thoat as best we could. Sola and I walked, making Dejah Thoris ride, much against her will. In this way we had progressed to within about a mile of the hills we were endeavoring to reach when Dejah Thoris, from her point of vantage upon the thoat, cried out that she saw a great party of mounted men filing down from a pass in the hills several miles away. Sola and I both looked in the direction she indicated, and there, plainly discernible, were several hundred mounted warriors. They seemed to be headed in a southwesterly direction, which would take them away from us.

They doubtless were Thark warriors who had been sent out to capture us, and we breathed a great sigh of relief that they were traveling in the opposite direction. Quickly lifting Dejah Thoris from the thoat, I commanded the animal to lie down and we three did the same, presenting as small an object as possible for fear of attracting the attention of the warriors toward us.

As we lay there the last warrior came into view from the pass; he halted, and to our consternation threw his small but powerful field glass to his eye and scanned the sea bottom in all directions. As his glass swung toward us our hearts stopped in our breasts, and I could feel the cold sweat start from every pore in my body.

Presently it swung full upon us and—stopped. Then he lowered it and we could see him shout a command to the warriors who had passed from our sight behind the ridge. He did not wait for them to join him, however, instead he wheeled his thoat and came tearing madly in our direction.

There was but one slight chance and that we must take quickly. Raising my strange Martian rifle to my shoulder I sighted and touched the button which controlled the trigger; there was a sharp explosion as the missile reached its goal, and the charging chieftain pitched backward from his flying mount.

Springing to my feet I urged the thoat to rise, and directed Sola to take Dejah Thoris with her upon him and make a mighty effort to reach the hills before the green warriors were upon us. I knew that in the ravines and gullies they might find a temporary hiding place, and even though they died of hunger and thirst it would be better so than that they fall into the hands of the Tharks. Forcing my two revolvers upon them as a slight means of protection, and, as a last resort, as an escape for themselves from the horrid death which recapture would surely mean, I lifted Dejah Thoris in my arms and placed her upon the thoat behind Sola, who had already mounted at my command.

"Good-by, my princess," I whispered, "we may meet in Helium yet. I have escaped from worse plights than this," and I tried to smile as I lied.

"What," she cried, "are you not coming with us?"

"How may I, Dejah Thoris? Someone must hold these fellows off for a while, and I can better escape them alone than could the three of us together."

She sprang quickly from the thoat and, throwing her dear arms about my neck, turned to Sola, saying with quiet dignity: "Fly, Sola! Dejah Thoris remains to die with the man she loves."

Those words are engraved upon my heart. Ah, gladly would I give up my life a thousand times could I only hear them once more; but I could not then give even a second to the rapture of her sweet embrace, and pressing my lips to hers for the first time, I picked her up bodily and tossed her to her seat behind Sola again, commanding the latter in peremptory tones to hold her there by force, and then, slapping the thoat upon the flank, I saw them borne away; Dejah Thoris struggling to the last to free herself from Sola's grasp.

Turning, I beheld the green warriors mounting the ridge and looking for their chieftain. In a moment they saw him, and then me; but scarcely had they discovered me than I commenced firing, lying flat upon my belly in the moss. I kept up a continuous stream of fire until I had all of the warriors who had been first to return from behind the ridge either dead or scurrying to cover.

My respite was short-lived however, for soon the entire party, numbering some thousand men, came charging into view, racing madly toward me. I fired until my rifle was empty and they were almost upon me, and then a glance showing me that Dejah Thoris and Sola had disappeared among the hills, I sprang up, throwing down my useless gun, and started away in the direction opposite to that taken by Sola and her charge.

If ever Martians had an exhibition of jumping, it was granted those astonished warriors on that day long years ago, but while it led them away from Dejah Thoris it did not distract their attention from endeavoring to capture me.

They raced wildly after me until, finally, my foot struck a projecting piece of quartz, and down I went sprawling upon the moss. As I looked up they were upon me, and although I drew my long-sword in an attempt to sell my life as dearly as possible, it was soon over. I reeled beneath their blows which fell upon me in perfect torrents; my head swam; all was black, and I went down beneath them to oblivion.

THE SOISSON.

"LOVE," with Louise Glaum, the top star in the leading role, an interesting picture today. A woman despises [illegible] for loving her until she returns his love.

This [illegible] Elizabeth Stoddard expresses [illegible] the feeling of the woman who must endure one [illegible] loving mother.

Such was the case of Natalie Storm. Natalie, young, beautiful, very much desired, loved Tom [illegible]. Tom had prospects but they were of the stuff that dreams are made of. For her elf Natalie asked nothing. But she was not considering herself.

Tom went to South America a-soldiering for fortune to lay at Natalie's feet. He knew Natalie loved him.

Yet, when he returned he found Natalie the plaything of another man, the mistress of his home, his dreams were shattered. Natalie had made her choice. There were two paths open to her. Poverty and illness of her sister and here [illegible] the other which led to comfort and [illegible] outlook life for Beatrice with laughter and sun and joyousness. Natalie chose the latter road.

Tomorrow, Thursday and Friday, Norma Talmadge will appear in "Yes Or No."

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE INNER VOICE," today's feature attraction, is a remarkable photoplay and is considered by critics as one of the most remarkable productions ever filmed. E. K. Lincoln is seen in the leading role. The [illegible] the picture tells is said to be a powerful dramatic recital of a man who gave unselfishly the best that was in him to the world and in return was overwhelmed with treachery, unfaithfulness and disgrace. With his soul embittered against his fellow men he struggled upward out of the depths resolved to face the world again and demand restitution. Mr. Lincoln in this picture is supported by a very large and capable company of well-known players which include Agnes Ayres, William Riley Hatch and [illegible] McPhil. It will be remembered that Mr. [illegible] was for [illegible] years one of the best [illegible] American actors on the American stage and was with [illegible] and Julia Marlowe until [illegible] retirement.

THE ORPHEUM.

"SUNSET SPRAGUE," featuring Buck Jones, is being shown today. Sun of Sprague (Buck Jones) is a range rider. When the story opens he is hunting a new job. He finds one but not the kind [illegible] expected. Riding along he [illegible] the crack of a rifle and simultaneously his hat is blown off. One [illegible] Barnes [illegible] two women [illegible] has mistaken Sunset for a bad man. He soon convinces Barnes of the contrary and Barnes tells him he is trying to protect Rose, [illegible] his ward. The bandits that killed Rose's father and stolen his mine [illegible] nightly haunt the cottage in which Rose, Barnes and [illegible] a Spanish girl live. Mace Donald, a [illegible] of the [illegible] is in love with Rose and has asked her to leave the [illegible] nightly and terrible [illegible] of [illegible] enemies. But Rose refuses, saying she will remain until she [illegible] who killed her father and stole his mine. Mace is [illegible] on friendly terms with Barnes but secretly is in conference with the bandit [illegible] his plan to kill Barnes. Sunset finally meets Mace when the latter is [illegible] a boy's pet dog and is about to shoot the animal. Sunset lassoes Mace's gun hand and then when Mace grabs another gun shoots that one out of his hand. Sunset rescues Rose and they are married.

Tomorrow Alice Brady will be featured in "The New York Idea."
